Dear Mr. Weisberg:

I wish to thank you for persisting in publicizing your doubts about the Warren Commission findings and for speaking with me on the phone. I know it has been almost a year now and I apologize for not writing sooner.

I have read Hoden's High Treason and I have A&E's 6 hour series on who Killed Kennedy on tape. It was fascinating. I have just watched JFK and was once again spurred on in my humble investigation. My family think I am crazy and I must admit that there very well maybe some craziness mixed in with the facts in my belief.

I was pleased to see you again on TV. I was, however, surprised at your comment about your investigation being different from others in that you aren't studying the assassination but how institutions have worked in times of crisis. I guess I understand in part but I am also interested in the mystery of the conspiracy. I was fascinated by JFK and I have done quite a bit of reading on the subject in the last year. I got started because of another program on A&E and your comments in it. I thank you for helping me become more aware.

I read of your feature in Life Magazine so I wanted to check your reactions to JFK so I might not be fooled by the drama of it. I have not been and investigative reporter; it is easy for me to believe what anyone says. I am guessing that you are not happy with Garrison's or the movie's conclusion that all the assassinations in the 60's were connected.

I hope that General X is (Donald Sutherland's) comment about "think for yourself" is welcomed by you. I wish to read Col. Prouty's book.

I was pleased to see in the movie that Garrison accused the press that the government deserves to be accused when it starts lying to its people.

I wonder what you see when you view this movie. I think its great that he was able to bring these questions to more people. Hopefully more people will begin to investigate. I wonder if another government investigation would not be just as sabotaged as the first I have been

I still have your books on my wish list. I am not working now however, my cat is demanding attention or dying (I'm not sure which), and cash is at an all time low. I am eating well and have clothes and shelter. I continue to read.

I know you told me about one assassination writer that you felt particularly good. I wish you would give me the name again so I might start again there.

This movie has started quite a lot of people thinking and talking. Some of the negative responses are a bit hard to take, but that's what freedom of speech is about.

Yet because someone wants to show a different side of the subject besides the official side is that any reason to call him unpatriotic. I'm referring to Washington post article life of course did a nice unbiased description of the movie. They will probably receive royalties from Zapruder film. Newsweek had comments on either side the negative was very emotional & not very news worthy. I really enjoyed David Ansens comments. Time's article was quite positive but again they have a financial stake too as Warner Brothers owns them.

I would welcome any and all of your comments

Thanks for reading

Thanks for writing; encouraging a dissenting voice.

If we take everything our government tells us as gospel we will surely lose more of what democracy means.

Sincerely
